Abstract

This thesis is the result of the author's research by analyzing the pattern of settlement of cases of husband's nusyuz against his wife by tuha peut as hakam in Suka Makmue Subdistrict, Nagan Raya Regency, where generally in the event of husband's nusyuz this obligation is resolved by custom through the village customary leaders who are sent as hakam. This study aims to explore the patterns and efforts to resolve cases of husband's nusyuz against his wife by tuha peut as hakam and analyze the effectiveness of the pattern of resolving cases of husband's nusyuz against his wife by tuha peut as hakam. Based on the results of the research, the author found that the efforts to resolve the husband's nusyuz by mediation conducted at the geuchik's office or at the husband and wife's home, the settlement was carried out through gampong customs after getting a report from the husband and wife's parties. The pattern of resolving cases of husband's nusyuz against this wife has several stages, namely (a) The reporting stage. (b) Receipt of the report. (c) The trial stage. (d) The stage of reading the decision and imposing sanctions. While the effectiveness of the implementation of peace made by tuha peut gampong as hakam in overcoming husband's nusyuz in Suka Makmue sub-district, Nagan Raya Regency is effective, but there are several factors that cannot be resolved by village traditional leaders as hakam. The success or failure of hakam is influenced by factors that support the peace process.
